Florence, Febr. 7. N. S.

SIr Lambert Blackwel, Her Majesty of Great Britain's Envoy Extraordinary, having signified to the Great Duke, that he was ready to take his Audience of Leave, his Highness appointed the Count de Bardi, one of the Gentlemen of his Chamber, to Entertain him; and this Ceremony to begin on the first instant. Accordingly that morning, between Eleven and Twelve, the Count came, with the Great Duke's Coaches, and a numerous Retinue, to the Envoy's House; whither my Lord Wargrave, and several other English Gentlemen, were come to accompany him. The Envoy and his Retinue were conducted thence to the Palace, where the Swiss Guards made a Lane for them; and being carried up to the Apartment for the Reception of Foreign Ministers, several Persons of Quality came thither to Compliment him. In the mean time, a most noble Dinner was served up, according to what had been directed by Sir Thomas Deerham Baronet, to whom his Highness the Great Duke had committed the Care of that Affair. Marquis Ferroni, one of the Great Duke's Pages, and of the best Families in this Country, held the Bason and Ewer to the Envoy, and Sir Thomas Deerham the Towel. The Envoy was served in Silver Gilt-Plate, and the rest of the Company in Silver: And when the Desert was brought upon the Table, they Drank Her Majesty of Great Britain's, the Great Duke's, his Royal Highness Prince George of Denmark's, and several other Healths. About Seven in the evening, the Envoy had Audience of the Great Duke: He was conducted to his Highness's Apartment by the Count de Bardi; The Commendatore del Bene, Great Chamberlain, received him at the Entrance into the Hall, and conducted him to the Great Duke's Antichamber, where his Highness met him, and carried him into his Chamber. The Audience being over, the Envoy was reconducted in the same manner to his Apartment; He desired to be excused from Supping in Publick; but a splendid Entertainment was provided for his Family and Retinue. The next morning the Count de Bardi, and several other Persons of Quality, waited upon the Envoy, and he was Entertained at Dinner in the same manner as the day before. About 7 in the evening the Count de Bardi carried the Envoy and his Retinue in the Great Duke's Coaches to the publick Theater, where they were Diverted with a very fine Opera, and excellent Musick. The third day the Envoy was treated in the same manner as the two days foregoing, and between 7 and 8 at night had his Audience of the Great Duke, being conducted and received with the same Ceremonies as at the Audience he had had the first day. After this Audience was ended, the Envoy, having been thus splendidly Entertained three days at the Great Duke's Charge, (who omitted nothing whereby he might express his Respect and Honour for Her Majesty of Great Britain, and his Kindness and Esteem for the English Nation) was reconducted to his own House in the same manner as he had been brought to the Palace, by the Count de Bardi; who, together with several Persons of Quality, and Gentlemen of both Nations that were present, continued there a short time to Drink Her Majesty's, the Great Duke's, and other Healths, and then the Count, and the rest of the Company, took their Leave of the Envoy. He is now receiving and paying the Visits of the Great Duke's Ministers, and other Persons of Quality that come to take their Leave of him; and intends, after that is over, to go to Leghorne, to take his Audiences of Leave of the Great Prince and Princess; and afterwards to proceed to Genoua, to take his Leave of that Republick, and then to return into England. The Lime, and the Mary-Galley, two English Men of War, sailed yesterday from Leghorne.

Venice, Febr. 14. The Imperial Army Commanded by the Count de Leiningen is marched into the Trentine, to wait there for their Reinforcements from Germany. The French Forces under the Grand Prior continue in the same Posts near the Lake di Garda, his Head-quarter being at Castighone delle Strivere; He has posted some of his Troops at Lazise, and seems to have some thoughts of fortifying that Post. There has lately happened an Action near Roncanella, between a German and a French Party, the first Commanded by Count Serini, the other by Monsieur Laurree, who was wounded and taken Prisoner, with several of his Men, many others killed, and the rest put to flight. Count Serini, after this Success, marched to Torbole, with intent to have attacked General Medavi, who lay there with 1200 French Horse, but they were retired upon Intelligence of his March. A Reinforcement of 800 German Horse is come to Trent in their March to join the Count de Leiningen's Army.

Vienna, Febr. 14. Our last Advices from Hungary say, That General Heister having Intelligence of a Body of Malecontents that lay at Czoporneck, was on his March thither to attack them; and we have just now a Report, That he has actually defeated them; whereof we must expect a more certain Account. They write from Arath, That a Party of Imperialists had lately routed one of the Malecontents, taken one of their Colonels and 50 Men, and a Booty of about 1000 Sheep, with other Cattle. It is said, The Malecontents threaten to Besiege Buda and Pest. The Imperial Regiment of Horse of Hohenzollern is marching from Bavaria to join General Heister's Army.

Berlin, Febr. 21. The Prince Royal of Prussia is returned hither from the Hague; and has received the Compliments of Condoleance of the Great Officers and Foreign Ministers, and other Persons of Quality, upon the Death of the Queen his Mother. The King has appointed Monsieur Sibourg, one of the Gentlemen of his Chamber, to go to the Courts of Hanover and Zell, to return the Compliments he has received from thence upon this melancholly Occasion. Monsieur Rosehan arrived here the 18th instant, with the Character of Ambassador from the King of Sweden; and is to have a private Audience of the King the 23th. Express Orders have been lately sent to Major-General Stille, who at present Commands the Prussian Troops in Bavaria, in the Absence of the Prince of Anhalt Dessau, to march with them into Italy, without any loss of time, in order to assist the Duke of Savoy; and a Courier has been also dispatched to his Highness at Dessau, to desire him to put himself at the head of them with all possible Expedition.

Triers, Feb. 20. The Marshal de Villars went the 17th instant from Metz to Luxembourg to view the Garison, and the Fortifications and Magazines of that Place. The Elector of Bavaria has received Orders to cause the French Forces, which are are ordered from Flanders to Luxembourg and the Moſelle, to begin their March with all poſſible Expedition. In the mean time all neceſſary Precaution is uſed here in order to diſappoint the Enemy's Deſigns. Our Huſſars make frequent Excurſions into the Enemy's Country with very good Succeſs.

Hague, Febr. 27. N. S. The French Forces near the Moſelle continue their Preparations as if they had a Deſign of attacking our Troops which are quartered on that ſide; whereupon Directions have been given for the erecting of ſufficient Magazines in thoſe Parts, to ſubſiſt ſuch a Body of Forces as it may be judged neceſſary to draw together for preventing the Enemy's Deſigns; and our Troops there are to be reinforced from the Maeſe, and the Neighbouring Gariſons. There has been ſome Alteration made in the Diſpoſition which had been propoſed by the Council of State, as well of the General Officers, as of the Forces in the Service of the States General, againſt the next Campaign; and it is believed no fix'd Reſolution will be taken thereupon before the Arrival of his Grace the Duke of Marlborough. The Letters we received this day from Paris ſay, That their Troops are not able to make any Advance in their Attacks againſt Venue or Gibraltar, by reaſon of the badneſs of the Weather; but that the French Court appeared ſtill reſolved to carry on thoſe Sieges, let the Expence be what it will.

Falmouth, Febr. 15. The 12th inſtant ſailed hence the Greyhound, George Loriſton Maſter, bound from St. Thomas to London: The next day ſailed the Neptune, a Privateer of Middlebourg, a Cruiſing; and the Alliance Pacquet-Boat from Lisbon.

Plimouth, Febr. 18. The 15th inſtant came in here the Bart-Pink, Robert Avent Maſter, the Agnes, Thomas Aſh Maſter, and the Mary, Peter Fiſh Maſter, all 3 of and from Dartmouth. Yeſterday came in Her Majeſty's Ship the Hampton-Court, and under her Convoy 5 Sail of Merchant-men, viz. the Adventure, the Succeſs, the Providence, the Great Brittania-Galley, and the Antelope.

Yarmouth, Feb. 19. This day paſſed through our Road ſeveral Coaſters bound to the Southward, under Convoy of the Merlin-Galley.

Cowes, Febr. 17. Yeſterday came in here from the Downes the James and Mary Galley of London, James Penn Maſter, and the Catherine of London, William Merit Maſter.

Portſmouth, February 20. Sir Thomas Dilkes ſailed from St. Hellens the 18th inſtant with the Squadron of Her Majeſty's Ships under his Command, and the outward bound Fleet of Merchant-men and other Veſſels under their Convoy; and they were out of ſight in two hours, having a fair Wind, which hath continued ever ſince.
